ICC has lowest tuition cost in Mississippi

With its annual fee of $2,200, Itawamba Community College's tuition is the lowest among Mississippi's 15 independently-governed two-year institutions.

According to the Associated Press, average tuition statewide for community colleges will rise to $2,377 annually, up from $2,241 in the 2012-13 school year based on figures from the Mississippi Community College Board.

Over the past few years ICC has made extra sacrifices such as increasing class loads and scheduling, delaying maintenance and curtailing travel to prevent raising tuition and fees.

"Itawamba Community College has always been sensitive to our students in the areas of tuition and fee increases," said President Mike Eaton. "Unfortunately it becomes a necessary avenue when state funding is not adequate."

Eleven of the 15 community colleges are raising tuition beginning this fall.

"While the majority of community and junior colleges found it necessary to increase tuition, we are pleased that ICC continues to be the lowest in the state," Eaton said.

A majority of the state's community college students pay less than full price through a combination of scholarships and financial aid, the AP story said.

Mississippi's community colleges continue to serve more students than the state's eight public universities.

Orientation sessions provide easy transition for ICC freshmen

Chieftain Reports

Freshman orientation at ICC is designed to engage students in the process, according to Larry Boggs, director of Student Recruitment and Scholarships.

In addition to scheduling classes for the fall semester, students participate in small group sessions, which engage them in the orientation and registration process.

A special parent orientation session covers topics of special interest to parents.

Both morning (8-11:15 a.m.) and evening (1:30-4:45 p.m.) sessions are scheduled for July 9 and 10 at the Student Services Building at the Fulton Campus and July 11 and 12 at the Health Science Education Center at the Tupelo Campus. Students may check in from 7-7:59 a.m. for the morning session and from 12:30-1:29 p.m. for the evening session.

"Orientation is designed to alleviate student anxiety," Boggs said.

ICC conducts small group orientation sessions to familiarize freshmen with the college environment.

Eaton is new ICC President

Chieftain Reports

Ripley native Mike Eaton became Itawamba Community College's sixth president last week following the retirement of Dr. David C. Cole, who had served in that capacity since 1993.

For almost four decades, Eaton has been at ICC, serving as an instructor, assistant and head football coach, director of Student Activities, assistant dean of students and vice president of Student Services. For the past three years he has been assistant to the President.

M. Eaton

Eaton is credited with providing the leadership for every major initiative the College has undertaken in the last five years including chairman of the Institutional Effectiveness Task Force, which has focused on student persistence, the improvement of retention and the increased graduation rate.

"Mike Eaton is the right person at the right time to lead the College," Cole said in January upon announcing his retirement. "He is a proven educational leader who possesses a contagious, optimistic outlook on life. His positive manner, winning attitude and four decades of dedication to ICC make him uniquely qualified. At each position (which he has served), he has earned the respect and trust of his colleagues."

The BEST start at ICC!

Viewpoint

"Is it May yet?"

That is the question my western civilization teacher jokingly asked us nearly every time my class met near semester's end.

Finals drew near, accompanied by their appropriate cram sessions, and not long after that, graduation.

Some of us took those exams and dove into summer the moment we turned in our last one. Until school reconvenes in the fall, we will think of anything but chemical formulas, misplaced modifiers or the War of 1812.

As student editor of the Chieftain, this is my last issue.

To say I am reluctant to leave would be an understatement. I have learned so much from this college, and I wish I could remain to find out even more. If anything, attending ICC has been a tremendous blessing in my life, and before I depart, I would like to explain why.

I could discuss our beautiful campus, our excellent student-teacher ratio, our affordable price or our ideal location (far enough away from major cities to keep us focused on school work; close enough to Tupelo or Memphis to have somewhere to spend a nice weekend). All of these have compelled me to continue my education at ICC at one time or another, but a single factor has cemented my loyalty to our college and will continue to encourage me to recommend it to others. That element is the people.

When I took my first tour of ICC, my guide assured me of the school's friendly atmosphere, but I did not fully comprehend it until I actually became a student here. Our student body is made up of people, young and old, many from diverse backgrounds and sharing different interests and tastes.

Many of us have forged lasting relationships with those who were utter strangers to us the first few weeks of our freshman year. Perhaps that has something to do with our population's overall kindness. I am proud to say that the students whom I have met these past couple of years have all proven helpful and courteous, even to those they did not know. Few colleges can boast of attracting students inclined to such hospitality and camaraderie.

Our staff members share in this praise. Usually clocking in long before most of the campus awakens each morning, our secretaries, housekeepers, food service personnel and many others serve as the backbone of our school.

They arrive to work every day with open and kind attitudes, willing to spend their breaks talking to others at the college and always ready to help anyone who comes to them for guidance or advice.

Many of the teachers who have taught me have worked tirelessly to engage their classes and to foster success among their students.

This is what I will miss most about ICC. Admittedly, my immediate family back home has done much to see me through my first two years of college, but the family I have found here has helped me just as well. Those from all positions have encouraged me to do more than I could have dreamed possible before enrolling in classes here two years ago.

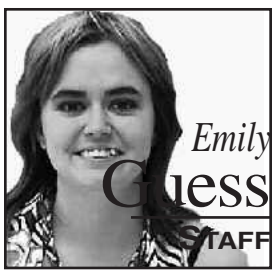
Although I must move on to my senior college soon, I hope to encourage others to take advantage of all that our school has to offer. Its opportunities are multitude, and its people are unbelievable.

When considering what ICC has given me, what it can bestow upon so many more, I immediately consider our school slogan, The best start here.

I hope that you will receive your best start at ICC as well.

Advice to freshmen

Commentary



With the end of a senior's last semester of high school come bitter tears and memories. Many thoughts run through his/her mind as he/she walks across that football field, auditorium stage or gymnasium floor.

Like most seniors in high school, I was ready to graduate and have a diploma on my wall, but I was also unsure whether or not I would be able to handle the amount of new responsibility that comes with that diploma.

As a freshman at ICC this year, I have realized that college is a big deal. High school teachers caution their students about the difficulty of assignments when compared with those in high school.

Remember the three-to-four minute break between classes? In college, that isn't the same. Breaks range from five to 10 minutes to an hour or a few hours. All students have an opportunity to decide when their classes will be and whether or not they are online or in person.

My advice if you are a recent high school graduate: do not be afraid of going to college! It is a big step, but as I have found, college is more rewarding to those who actually put forth some effort than to those who don't care.

And, that college diploma hanging on the wall in a few years will definitely be worth it.

Staff Reports

Mass notification system alerts faculty, staff, students

Chieftain Reports

Itawamba Community College provides a mass notification system called ICC ALERT.

Students, faculty and staff are urged to participate in the free service, according to Buddy Collins, vice president of Student Services.

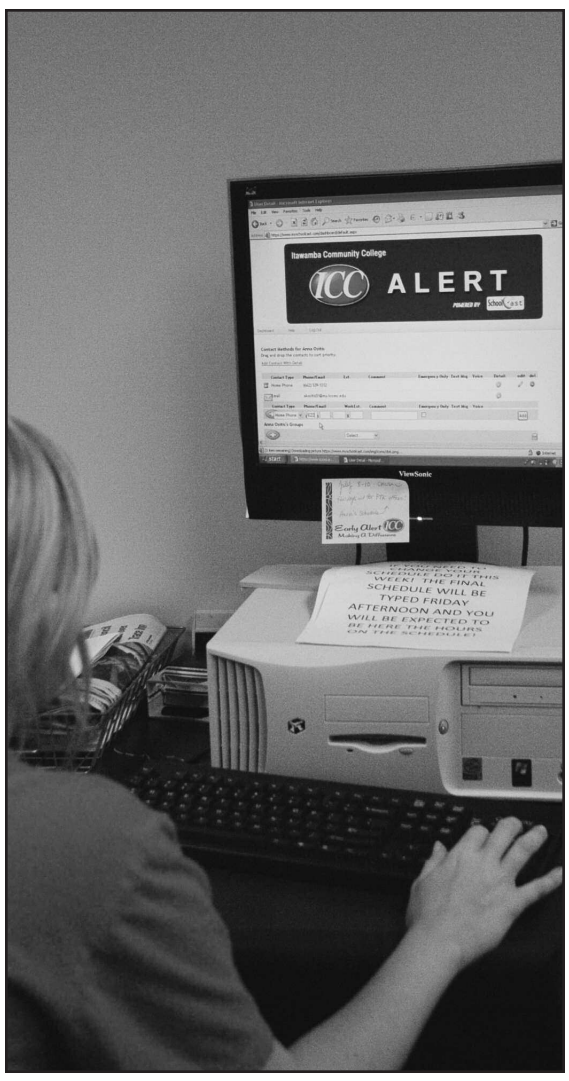
"The system enables the College to inform students, faculty and staff of any emergencies or imminent danger situations," Collins said. "The system is secure and will be used for emergency situations and periodic testing."

The system has been utilized for inclement weather situations when classes and offices were closed due to snow and icing conditions and when storms threatened the area, Collins said.

To sign up to receive emergency messages through ICC ALERT:

1. Log onto the GO2ICC portal using your name and password.
2. Click on the ICC ALERT tab.
3. You are now at your dashboard and can provide the information to receive messages.

For assistance with technical issues, contact the TIS Help Desk at 6662.862.8295 or via email at TIS_support@iccms.edu.



ICC ALERT information is posted as necessary on ICC's website.

Financial aid still available for fall semester

Chieftain Reports

Now is the time to finalize financial aid applications for the fall semester.

While ICC has no financial aid application deadline, students are encouraged to apply early.

Financial aid status and awards may be checked on ICC's Portal, "GO2ICC," from ICC's website, www.iccms.edu.

Students have to reapply for Federal financial aid (complete the FAFSA) each year, according to Financial Aid director Bob Walker. Applications may be submitted via the Web at www.fafsa.gov. "Be sure to include the ICC Federal school code of 002409 on the application. ICC Financial Aid will receive the application electronically and contact the student if more information is needed.

Christopher Buchanan, right, assists Neyda Sandoval and Monica Connally at the Tupelo Campus financial aid office.

"If the student has submitted the FAFSA, the application still may be incomplete," Walker said. If that is the case, ICC will send students a letter requesting the additional information. Also, missing information may be checked on ICC's Portal so that students can see what information is needed, and in most cases, print the forms directly from ICC's website and fax to 662.862.8225 or mail to 602 West Hill Street, Fulton, MS 38843.

Student loan applications for first-time borrowers can also be printed from ICC's website, Walker said. The forms must be completed and submitted to his office. In addition, the FAFSA must be completed before students can be considered for the student loan.

Students may also check the application status of their MTAG and other state financial aid awards online at www.mississippi.edu.

ICC's Financial Aid offices at both Fulton and Tupelo are open from 8 a.m.-4:30 p.m., Monday through Friday.

PACE assists with student success

Chieftain Reports

Recent high school graduates who enroll at Itawamba Community College have an unprecedented opportunity to "get on PACE for success," according to Dr. Jan Reid-Bunch, dean of Academic Instruction.

"The creation of the Preparing and Advancing for College Excellence program is a very positive step and a significant commitment by the College to ensure the success of our students," Reid-Bunch said. "Research indicates programs, such as PACE, are critical in the transition from high school to college to enable students to develop the tools to become successful."

"To foster success in our first-year students, we offer small classes with excellent faculty to embrace topics that will quickly engage students in the learning process and will aid them in the culmination of an associate's degree," Reid-Bunch said. "The transition process includes gaining the life skills needed for the collegiate classroom, on campus and in the community."

Components of the curriculum include goal-setting, time management, study skills, self-discipline, financial planning, college traditions and navigating technology for college success as well as exposing our students to campus organizations, student activities and community awareness. The program teaches students to understand that student success is a combination of academics, wellness and engagement.

"Graduation matters at ICC," said Reid-Bunch, "and we believe that the implementation of PACE is assisting us in ensuring the success of our students, which will culminate in their earning an associate's degree."

Students at recent freshman orientation sessions on both the Fulton and Tupelo campuses not only completed their schedules, but they also learned about financial aid and other options.

ICC centers focus on student success

Chieftain Reports

Students at Itawamba Community College have an opportunity to take advantage of several opportunities to enhance their success.

ICC has opened centers for Advising, Student Success and Writing to assist in retention and graduation efforts.

STUDENT SUCCESS

Student Success Centers are located at both the Fulton and Tupelo campuses.

The Fulton Campus center is located on the first floor of the Crubaugh Technical Building and the Tupelo Campus center, in the Student Support Center. The Student Success Center is a central place for students to find academic support.

The centers offer free peer tutoring, study halls/class preparation for student-athletes, Early Alert referral, success groups, conduct seminars to enable students to be successful and offer learning style inventories to help students understand how they "best" learn.

ADVISING

The Advising Center is located in the Technical Education Building at the Fulton Campus in the academic suite.

Academic advising at ICC emphasizes investing in the student by fostering an adviser/advisee relationship committed to student success through degree completion while collaboratively working with advisers through professional development programs and promoting career options for all students, according to center director Mande Miller.

The center provides resources for both faculty and students.

Student seminars focus on the development of an educational plan and preparation of students for their future educational goals.

Students who wish to change their major must do so by visiting the Advising Center.

All students who register at ICC are assigned advisers to ensure that they stay on track to graduate, Miller said.

WRITING

Located in the Technical Education Building on the Fulton Campus and in the Student Support Center on the Tupelo Campus, the Writing Centers at ICC offer free, friendly, one-to-one writing consultations for all ICC students.

The mission of the centers is meeting students at their skill level and working with them on real assignments to improve their understanding of how college writing works, according to director Anna Britt-Begnaud.

Peer reviewers are trained to help students become stronger writers by serving as an active, engaged inquisitive reading audience, Britt-Begnaud said.

Students may also access this service through the online writing center which is available 24/7 at www.iccms.edu.

Leah Pharr and Mason Perkins work in one of ICC's Writing Centers, which offer consultations for all ICC students. There is also online assistance.

Tuition guarantee deadline nears for area residents

Chieftain Reports

July 31 is the deadline for 2013 graduates from high schools in ICC's five-county district to complete applications for the Guaranteed Tuition Program.

Students who apply must complete 12 course hours per semester and maintain at least a 2.0 grade point average.

"We encourage the 2013 graduates in our district to apply even if they are considering attending college elsewhere," said ICC Financial Aid director Bob Walker. "Plans may change, and if so, the students will be guaranteed tuition at Itawamba."

To receive the tuition guarantee at ICC, students must have taken the National ACT and complete the Mississippi Tuition Assistance Grant application and the Free Application for Federal Student Aid, apply for ICC institutional scholarships, enroll at ICC as a full-time student and complete the appropriate county Guaranteed Tuition Program application, all by July 31, Walker said.

The Guaranteed Tuition Program closes the gap between available federal, state and private grants and scholarships.

ICC tobacco-free campuses promote healthy environment

Chieftain Reports

The use of tobacco products is prohibited on Itawamba Community College's Fulton and Tupelo campuses as well as the Belden Center to promote a healthier environment, according to Buddy Collins, vice president of Student Services.

ICC implemented the tobacco-free policy in January 2011.

According to the policy, which was enacted by ICC's Board of Trustees, the use of tobacco and smoking products is not permitted on any college-owned property, which includes, but is not limited to, buildings, grounds, parking area walkways, recreational and sporting facilities and College-owned vehicles. It applies to faculty, staff, students, contractors, vendors and visitors, both indoors or outdoors.

The initiative continues to educate the ICC family as well as visitors not only about tobacco-free implementation, but also emphasizes cessation options and resources.

"The cooperation of students, faculty, staff and visitors is vital to the continuing success of this effort."

ICC offers refund choices through Choice Card

Chieftain Reports

ICC is partnering with HigherOne in a refund process that allows participants three options.

Students have a choice as to how they will receive their refund, according to Sandi South, Fulton Campus business manager.

The process begins with ICC's sending refund information and wiring the funds necessary to HigherOne, which will disburse refunds based on the preference selected by the student, South said.

Students may choose from refund options including a paper check, debit card or direct deposit.

The ICC Choice Card will be mailed to all who enroll at ICC in a neon green envelope. Students should not throw away the card, South said, even though they don't expect to receive a refund during the current semester. They could possibly receive a refund in the near future, and there will be a replacement fee for the card.

Pate, Armour challenge '13 graduates

Chieftain Reports

Dr. Jim Pate, dean of the University of Mississippi Tupelo Campus, took ICC's Associate of Arts graduates on a journey during the 63rd commencement ceremony at the Fulton Campus, May 12.

Pate, who is a first generation college graduate like many of those who participated in the ceremony, said that 51 years ago he sat in a folding chair in another building on the Itawamba Junior College campus and received his Associate of Arts degree.

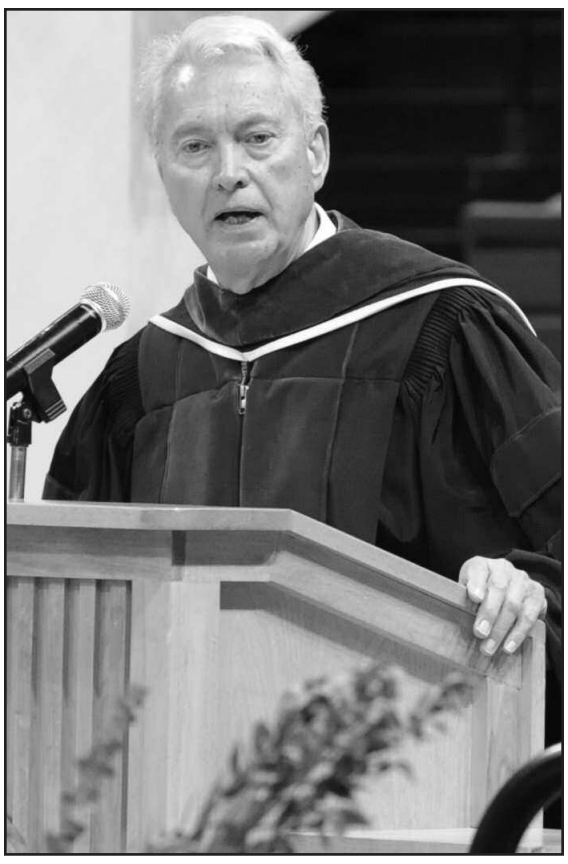
Born in the "suburbs of Tremont, I took a circuitous route to get here. My family participated in the hillbilly exodus to Illinois. I graduated from high school there and left in late August 1960 to begin classes at IJC," Pate said.

Pate cited examples of leading a contingent of 24 IJC students on an "unsanctioned" journey to Mardi Gras in New Orleans and a trip to Florida during which he was the subject of an 11-state missing persons alarm. "Today our journeys have intersected. Your journey is uniquely yours.

"When you leave, you will return to a familiar place, but you will be moving to the next milestone in your journey," Pate said before providing four life lessons for the road.

"Lesson number one, remember where you come from," Pate said. "Don't forget your roots." He cited the story of his maternal grandfather and his mother, who both practiced tough love and in the process didn't know the word, quit. He paused for members of the class of 2013 to applaud for their families who have supported them on their journeys.

Mike Armour, director of the Appalachian Regional Commission for Mississippi, addresses those who earned A.A.S. degrees or certificates.



Dr. Jim Pate, dean of the UM-Tupelo campus, challenges ICC graduates during the Associate of Arts commencement ceremony.

"Lesson number two, don't ever stop learning. Approximately 30 percent of all Americans have earned a college degree, but less than 20 percent of all Mississippians," Pate said.

"Lesson number three, do what you love," Pate challenged. "Don't be afraid to fail. Always trust your heart and intuition."

"Lesson number four, make a difference," Pate said in encouraging graduates to become engaged in their communities and to move beyond their comfort zones, noting that there could be wrong turns or potholes along the way.

"You have reached an important milestone in your journey," Pate said in closing. "You started in a good place, at ICC; you can be proud of it."

Before he became dean of the University of Mississippi-Tupelo, he served as vice president for Academic Affairs and professor of history at Northeastern State University. He also earned the bachelor's degree from Delta State University. He has received numerous honors and recognitions for his professional and civic activities.

Mike Armour, director of the Appalachian Regional Commission for Mississippi, was the speaker for the second ceremony, during which graduates received Associate of Applied Science degrees and certificates.

Overseer Gerald Patterson of the Words of Faith Deliverance Ministries of Tupelo was the speaker for the GED commencement ceremony, which began at 6 p.m.

Students arrive at the Fulton Campus on the free shuttle.

ICC offers free shuttle

Chieftain Reports

Itawamba Community College will continue the free shuttle service between the Fulton and Tupelo campuses this fall.

Shuttle service begins and ends at the Fulton Campus with stops in front of the Student Services Buildings at both campuses.

According to Buddy Collins, vice president of Student Services, the shuttle service provides a vital service and transports approximately 20-25 students daily between campuses.

The service, Collins said, will be offered as long as it is utilized.

Interested in ride share?

Chieftain Reports

Itawamba Community College will continue to offer a service to assist students who are interested in alternative transportation methods beside the shuttle service this fall.

Students who are interested in participating in the ride share service should email their name, town and phone number and email address in addition to their student number which is located on their schedule to publicrelations@iccms.edu the first week of the fall semester.

Each Friday for the first three weeks, participants will receive an ICC email with names, towns and email addresses for all who have signed up. Students who are successful with obtaining a ride share should contact the same email addresses for their names to be removed from future listing.

The service is provided for contact only. The decision of ride sharers will be made by the students.

ICC first college to earn six stars from Institute of Sustainability

Chieftain Reports

Itawamba Community College became the first college to earn six sustainable stars from The Institute of Sustainability.

The College received notification from David Long, TIOS regional director, that it was awarded a star in the waste reduction category. Additional stars earned previously included general energy efficiency, water efficiency and urban run-off, pollution prevention and chemical use and transportation management.

Among the documentation submitted for the waste reduction star were a Going Green in Paradise webpage; sustainability training for faculty; the inclusion of weekly announcements and tips in electronic newsletters to faculty, staff and students; and the many efforts to reduce waste throughout the College's daily operations at each of its three locations including Fulton, Tupelo and Belden.

Student Government officers ready for fall

OLIVIA WILLIAMS

Chieftain

Student Government Association officers have been elected for both the Fulton and Tupelo campuses.

Fulton officers are Trevor Hood, president; Blake Trehern, vice president; Abby Rogers, treasurer; and Emily Short, secretary.

Officers at the Tupelo Campus include Patricia Marie Dillard, president; Patience Campbell, vice president; Tramesha Faith Cook, secretary; and Sarah Abbott, treasurer.

The Fulton officers plan for more student involvement in sporting events, Hood said. "Sports at ICC are very competitive. I believe our student body should get behind (our sports teams) in whatever they do. Any person on a sports team will tell you that when a student section gets into a game, it makes them play with a little more intensity and pumps them up. A good student section brings a different aspect to any game."

The SGA also plans to continue its regular cookouts and movie nights since they were "successful this year."

Hood said that student involvement is essential to having a great college, so the SGA will "do its best to bring enjoyable activities to the table."

ICC's Phi Theta Kappa wins regional, international awards

Chieftain Reports

The Upsilon Sigma Chapter of Phi Theta Kappa at the Fulton Campus won several awards at the Mississippi/Louisiana Regional Convention this spring as well as two top honors at the international convention in San Jose, Calif., Apr. 4-6.

ICC students and advisors won the following: Most Outstanding College Project award — Compete to Complete: Skills for Today, Success for Tomorrow; Most Outstanding Honors in Action project — ICC Halloween Basketball Shootout; Dr Ashley Lancaster, Horizon Award for Outstanding Advisors; Robin Lowe, runner up for the Bennie Warren Distinguished Advisor Award and Northern District Representative to the MS/LA Regional Advisory Board (three-year term); Emily Williams of Tupelo, who is the vice president of Scholarship and College Project director, runner up for Most Distinguished Chapter Officer; Most Distinguished newsletter runner-up; Most Distinguished Officer Team runner-up; Top Five Chapter; Canary Brooks of Shannon, MS/LA Regional Secretary; and Five Star Chapter.

There are 46 chapters in the Mississippi/Louisiana Region.

Advisor Jolene Hoots also attended the convention.

Lowe, who is an English instructor, was also the recipient of the Distinguished Advisor award at the international convention. She is an active member of the Epsilon Nu chapter of Beta Sigma Phi and attends St. Andrew's Methodist Church in Amory. She earned the associate's degree from ICC and both the bachelor's and master's degrees from Mississippi State University. Her honors include Humanities Teacher of the Year, Meritorious Achievement, William Winter Scholar, Who's Who Among America's Teachers and NISOD Excellence award. She and her husband, Michael, have one daughter, Caroline.

Upsilon Sigma was also selected as a Top 100 Chapter. It competed against 1,400 chapters.

ICC Phi Theta Kappa Upsilon Sigma chapter advisor Robin Lowe, right, receives the Distinguished Advisor award at the 95th International Phi Theta Kappa Convention in San Jose, Calif.

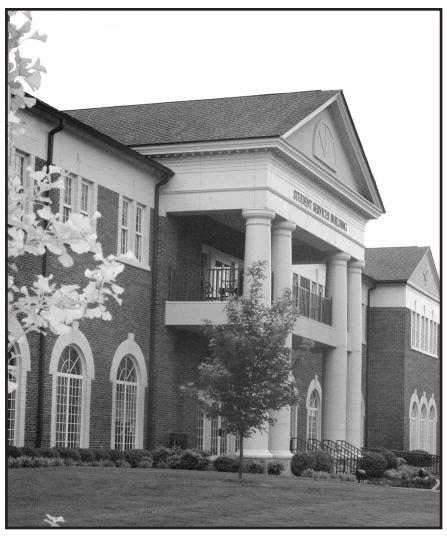
ITAWAMBA
Community College

Itawamba Community College is a two-year public-supported community college dedicated to serving the educational needs of the residents primarily of Chickasaw, Itawamba, Lee, Monroe and Pontotoc counties in Northeast Mississippi. Its main purpose is to provide comprehensive educational opportunities of the highest quality through academic, vocational-technical and personal enrichment programs in order to meet local needs at low cost to students.

The College fully subscribes to the philosophy that the mission of the community college is to bring the concept of educational opportunities for all closer to reality. To support this philosophy, the College has an open admissions policy that provides students an opportunity to pursue a college/university parallel Associate of Arts degree a technical Associate of Applied Science degree or an occupational Vocational Certificate. In addition, students are encouraged to participate in special interest programs. The students receive academic skills and application strategies to assume their roles in society and in the work place. Additionally, residents within the district are presented special services and activities designed to promote economic growth.

More specifically, Itawamba Community College provides the following: college parallel programs that allow students to transfer a maximum of two years of college work to four-year colleges and universities; technical and vocational programs that prepare students for immediate employment; continuing education and community service programs for individuals striving for professional growth and/or personal enrichment; educational services which contribute to the needs of new, expanding or existing businesses and industries and to the training needs of the people; educational programs and services for students with special needs; and adult basic education programs committed to increasing the literacy level of the adult population.



Candidates for admission to academic, technical or vocational programs may be admitted by diploma — students are required to present an official transcript from a high school accredited by the appropriate state or regional accreditation association; by completing the appropriate number of Carnegie units; by successfully completing the GED test — students are required to have an official copy of the GED transcript mailed to the Registrar/Director of Admissions; by advanced standing (college transfer students). Some technical programs may have selective criteria for admission.

Itawamba Community College does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, religion, national origin, gender, disability or age in its educational programs and activities, employment or admissions.

In compliance with Title IV of the Civil Rights Act of 1964; Title IX, Education Amendments of 1972; and Section 504, Rehabilitation Act of 1973, Itawamba Community College makes available its curricular and extracurricular programs and its facilities to every qualified person regardless of race, sex, color, creed, national origin or disability. Itawamba Community College complies with all applicable laws regarding affirmative action and equal opportunity in all its activities and programs and does not discriminate against anyone protected by law because of age, creed, color, national origin, race, religion, sex, disability, veteran or other status. The designated officer of compliance is Buddy Collins, vice president of Student Services, Itawamba Community College, 602 West Hill Street, Fulton, MS 38843 (662.862.8271).

Itawamba Community College is accredited by the Commission on Colleges of the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools to award associate's degrees. Contact the Commission on Colleges at 1866 Southern Lane, Decatur, Georgia 30033-4097 or call 404.679.4501 for questions about the accreditation of Itawamba Community College.

Four faculty/staff members were recipients of the College's highest honor, the Meritorious Achievement award, at the conclusion of the spring semester.

They include Ray Orr, collision repair technology instructor; Harold Plunkett, dean of Health Science instruction; Joahn Summers, computer science instructor; and Donna Thomas, director of Media Relations.

Open registration set for August

Chieftain Reports

Readmission, transfer and new students age 21 and older who plan to register for the fall semester at Itawamba Community College can visit the Student Affairs offices on both the Fulton and Tupelo campuses during regular hours this summer through August 9.

Offices are open from 8 a.m.-4:30 p.m. weekdays, and they are located in the Student Services Buildings on both campuses.

Exceptions for fall registration include all students who are 2013 high school graduates who plan to enroll at ICC in the fall. Those students must register for and participate in an orientation session this summer at the campus where they plan to take most of their classes, according to Dr. Brad Boggs, director of Student Affairs.

There are additional options.

Online registration for fall semester classes is open through August 9 for students who were enrolled in the spring semester but did not register, Boggs said.

Open registration for fall day classes at the Fulton Campus will be August 15-16 from 8:30 a.m.-4 p.m. in the Student Services Building; and at the Tupelo Campus, August 15-16, from 8:30 a.m.-4 p.m. in the Multi-Purpose Building. Evening class registration is scheduled for August 15-16 in the office of the Registrar/Director of Admission in the Administration Building on the Fulton Campus and August 14, 15 and 16 in the Multi-Purpose Building at the Tupelo Campus.

For more information, call the Fulton Campus at 662.862.8000 or the Tupelo Campus at 662.620.5000.

Andrea Senter of Itawamba Community College's TIS Department provides hands-on information about the use of the portal to access services such as class registration during the recent freshman orientation session. Registration for fall will continue through August 9.

ICC offers online GED testing

Chieftain Reports

Online GED testing is available at Itawamba Community College's Belden Center.

The computer-based GED test, which is the same test content offered currently on paper versions of the test, and its accompanying systems will provide an array of new benefits for both Mississippi and GED test-takers. Some of the initial benefits include an introduction of basic keyboarding and computer skills, enhanced test security, flexible testing appointments for test-takers, instant test scores and one-stop online registration and scheduling.

One of the advantages of the computer-based GED, according to Jan West, director of Adult Education and Workforce Basic Skills at ICC, is that examinees leave the test center with scores in hand, whereas there is a waiting period for the paper/pencil tests to be scored. Examinees may also start another test immediately after they have completed a test. With the blocked schedule paper/pencil testing, all examinees are required to wait until the designated time for the next test to begin.

The paper/pencil GED test will be administered through December at ICC's Belden Center at 3200 Adams Farm Road and throughout the College's five supporting counties on a rotating basis. It includes social studies, science, mathematics and both language arts reading and writing.

The GED test, which serves as the only nationally recognized high school equivalency program, requires just more than seven hours for the completion of the entire battery, West said. To obtain a Mississippi GED credential an examinee must acquire a combined total score of 2,250 and a minimum of 410 on each content area to pass.

ICC recognizes top scholars during annual honors ceremony

Itawamba Community College recognized its top scholars during the annual honors ceremony, Apr. 2, at the Fulton Campus.

"An Evening of Celebration: Honoring Academic Excellence Across the Curriculum," featured the presentation of division and departmental awards as well as the recognition of PTK's All-Mississippi Academic Team representatives from ICC.

Author Steve Williford of Memphis, Tenn. related the story of his neighbor, Kevin, who has cerebral palsy, to challenge the honor students to "look for opportunities to celebrate life's events."

Williford also told about his years as a student at Colonial Elementary School in Memphis. "I had some challenges; I was the shortest, youngest and I wore corrective shoes. I had a flat top that didn't work. I had a cowlick. I had a problem that confounded speech pathologists. My 'sh' sounded like a 'w.'"

Williford said he had a lot of red on his papers.

"We had two reading groups," Williford recounted, "the redbird (A) and the bluebird (B). I wasn't in either one. We had the sparrow reading group; there were only two of us in it, I and another student, who is now an air traffic controller."

Williford said that he had to repeat fourth grade, but he attributed his turnaround to Mrs. Ruth Riley. "She patted me on the shoulder," he said. "and said 'you can do it.' It opened a glimpse of hope."

"You can't be all that you could be until you accept yourself," Williford said. "You can't make anybody else feel good."

Williford said that Kevin knew everybody in the neighborhood. "The first time I saw him, he shook my hand," Williford recalled. "He said, 'Hi, I'm Kevin. I have cerebral palsy'"

"I looked forward to getting home to shake Kevin's hand."

Williford emphasized, "Kevin is a perfect example of self-confidence. You can articulate your feelings if you have good self confidence. Kevin is a tremendous example of finding a time to celebrate. Look for opportunities to celebrate life's events."

Commentary

From the Sideline

ENJOY THE JOURNEY

Remember saying when you were growing up that you wanted to be famous?

You spent hours pretending to be the rock star on stage or the MVP quarterback. Maybe Michael Jordan making the game-winning shot?

Whether it was being a rock star or a sports figure or in the case of my son, a WWE champion, we have all had dreams for which we would sacrifice almost anything.

ICC has produced many successful athletes, those who not only dreamed of being famous, but who are.

For example, there's Duce Staley, a running back in 1993 and 1994. He returned to his native South Carolina and after graduation from USC, he was drafted by the Philadelphia Eagles in 1997 and later played for the Pittsburgh Steelers. Recently, he's been hired by the Eagles as running backs coach.

Then, there's Darius Slay, a member of ICC's football team in 2009 who transferred to Mississippi State. He's most likely to land a spot in the NFL after his Combine showing last month.

Next is Bud Davis (1925-2013), who had a stellar coaching career in men's basketball at Itawamba Junior College. He led the Indians to five North Division championships, two state championships and two undefeated seasons. His undefeated teams, 1960-61 and 1961-62, are known as the "Team of the Century."

Coach Nanci Gray, who has led the Lady Indians for the last seven years, is taking her 2012-13 team to Hutchinson, Kan. this week to play in the national tournament. She was on ICC's first women's basketball state championship team in 1975. After sending more than 27 years in high school education, 17 as a head coach, Gray led the Lady Indians to 2012 and 2008 state championships, for which she was named the MACJC Coach of the Year, and the 2013 Region 23 championship earlier this month.

Among other noteworthy IJC/ICC alumni are Odie Armstrong, Aubrayo Franklin, Kareem Moore, Lemarcus Rowell, Desmoine Ware, Tim Bowens, Ron Dixon, Ernest Dye, Jason Ferguson, Norman Hand, Joe Horn and Tim Dillard.

The pursuit of their dreams took hard work, dedication and a positive attitude.

From the list of ICC's successful athletes, it's evident that the best DO start here!

Itawamba Community College offers the ability to achieve a wide range of goals, and people from all walks of life have left their mark. Whether it be in nursing, law, business, education or a multitude of other areas, successful people have started their dreams at ICC.

Just like each of ICC's successful alumni, each of us is writing our own success story.

It's opportunity knocking, so dream big. Success, character, discipline and hard work are the keys. Enjoy the journey while shaping the destination!

Sloan named ICC's first All-Region So. selection

Rebecca Sloan pitches for the Lady Indians.

Chieftain Reports

Sophomore pitcher Rebecca Sloan of Oneonta, Ala. was named ICC's first-ever National Fastpitch Coaches Association All-Region South team selection for the National Junior College Athletic Association Division II colleges.

Sloan finished the season 15-6 with a 2.00 ERA with a single-season record 109 strikeouts, 13 complete games, one shutout and a save in 126 innings pitched while posting a .992 fielding percentage.

The 2013 NFCA All-Region squads are composed of one team of 16 players from each of the three NFCA Regions: East, South and Midwest. The South Region, however, included 19 student-athletes this year due to ties.

10 student-athletes earn awards

Chieftain Reports

Ten Itawamba Community College student-athletes have earned National Junior College Athletic Association Academic Student-Athlete awards for their performances in the classroom, according to athletic director Carrie Ball-Williamson.

"This is a great honor for all of the hard work and dedication these student-athletes put into their academic careers here at ICC," Ball-Williamson said. "A lot of people don't realize how much work and how many hours go into being a success in the classroom and the sports they play."

Women's soccer player Ragan Ostrowski of Amory and men's tennis player Matthew Peugh of Shannon received the prestigious Pinnacle Award for Academic Excellence for finishing their final athletic seasons at ICC with a 4.0 grade point average.

Earning the Superior Academic Achievement award, which is presented to student athletes with a 3.80-3.99 GPA, were Anna Holley of Columbus, women's soccer and All-State softball player, 3.96; Katherine Downing of Pontotoc, women's state champion tennis player, 3.81; Lauren Swee of Chelsea, Ala., 3.85; and men's soccer players Moises Solis of New Albany, 3.81; and Taylor Smith of Corinth, 3.80.

Earning Exemplary Academic Achievement honors for a GPA ranging from 2.60 to 3.79 are soccer players Ashley Malone of Michie, Tenn., 2.74 and Jackson Cornelius of Corinth, 3.72; and all-time softball saves leader Dani Taylor of New Albany, 3.61.

"Academics are our top priority at ICC," Ball-Williamson said. "We want all of our teams to be successful and have great seasons, but more importantly we want our student-athletes to be successful in life and everything they do after ICC, and a great education plays a big part in making that happen."

Only student-athletes who have completed three semesters are eligible for the awards.

The honorees represented five of ICC's 10 athletic programs, a record. "We are well known for our outstanding athletic programs here at ICC, and a large part of that success can be traced back to our coaches stressing the importance of excellence in the classroom," Ball-Williamson said. "When a student-athlete does what it takes to perform at a high level in the classroom, that same type of hard work and dedication shows in the respective sports."

Champions!

Itawamba Community College's women's tennis team won the state MACJC championship title this spring. Team members in no particular order include Katherine Downing, Amy Evans, Amber Frederick, Anna-Blair Hunt, Theresa Jackson, Caley O'Callaghan, Bianca Stephens and Franie Turner. Head coach is Paul Johnson.
